This inaugural Volume 9, Issue 2 2017 is considered to cover three fields such as Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering, Civil and Environmental Engineering & Electrical and Electronic Engineering, from the theoretical aspects to the applications studies. This issue consists of nine papers which proposed from seven different academic institutions. This broad knowledge would inspired readers and will trigger further research into the specific area.

Throughout the preparation of this issue, we would like to express sincere thanks to Editorial Team and Advisory Board members of International Journal of Integrated Engineering on the great support including all valuable advices and suggestions. It is our hope that this collection of papers will be a precious resources for all readers and researchers especially in engineering and technology fields.
